

Waterville Creates in collaboration with community partners, including the Colby College Museum of Art, Waterville Public Schools, and the Family Violence Project has launched the very successful Art Kits for All program. This network of local non-profits powers this program, providing support to keep these kits accessible to all.

Special thanks to the Waterville Public Library for their help distributing these kits.

Place the stencils under one section of the paper bag. Cut them out and move them around to where you want them.

2

Trace the stencil onto the paper bag. You can make your own drawing or try using cookie cutters as stencils!

3

Cut out the shapes or color them in with marker.

4

Turn on the tea light and put it in the bag. Don't use a real candle!

5

Put your luminaries in a window, on a porch, or in the driveway. Enjoy the little light you have added to the darkness, and all the other lights around town!

You can weigh down the luminary bag with stones or sand!

The Winter Solstice

This year, the Winter Solstice is December 21 and is the official beginning of winter in the Northern Hemisphere. The Winter Solstice also marks the beginning of lengthening days and shortened nights. Put your luminaries out on the solstice night to celebrate the light!
